MEDIA STATEMENT

We did learn today (March 12) that one of our memory care residents who had been hospitalized for a separate health matter has tested positive and diagnosed with COVID-19. This individual is recovering in quarantine at a local hospital and when discharged will be quarantined at a family member’s home.

As an additional precaution for residents and employees, we are identifying all individuals who had contact with this resident. Those residents will be isolated and monitored for symptoms. It should be noted that as of now, none of the other residents or employees are experiencing any symptoms.

This is the first and only confirmed case at Covenant Living at the Shores. As a result, this case has been reported to local and state health departments and we are working very closely with them.

The safety and wellbeing of our residents and staff remains our top priority and we will continue to work with our local and national leadership teams of Covenant Living to limit the potential impact of the Coronavirus.
